Construction of amperometric electrode based on oleylamine functionalized gold nanoparticles modified glassy carbon electrode for rapid determination of sodium dodecyl sulfate. A novel amperometric electrode based on oleylamine functionalized gold nanoparticles (AuNPs) modified glassy carbon electrode (GCE) was prepared by electrodeposition of AuNPs to fabricate the electrode surface of self-assembled monolayers (SAMs) of oleylamine (OAm). Electrochemical experiments were conducted in various phosphate buffers with different pH values. The results indicated that the fabricated electrode showed good electrocatalytic activity toward H₂O₂ reduction and the peak current responses were related to the pH values of phosphate buffer. As-prepared OAm/AuNPs/GCE was employed to detect sodium dodecyl sulfate (SDS) in water samples. The peak current of OAm/AuNPs/GCE decreased with the increase of the concentration of SDS in the range from 1.00×10^{-5} to 4.00×10^{-3} mol/L. The calibration curve obtained for SDS was linear over the concentration range from 1.00×10^{-5} to 4.00×10^{-3} mol/L, with a detection limit of 8.09×10^{-6} mol/L (signal-to-noise ratio 3) using AuNPs/GCE. A possible mechanism for the electrochemical behavior of SDS at the fabricated electrode was also discussed. Furthermore, the effects of some possible interferences on the determination of SDS have been examined. If Lee was thinking he could get away with this, he was sorely mistaken. The Marines have more backbone than that. I tried to put my head in my hands as Lee played down his abuse of the nation's flag. I have always been a pacifist, so I did not want to see any violence, 82157476af
